Thoughts?

I've been thinking that the really important thing is for us to reconsider what our fundamental approach to life is. I'm not sure I really want to be part of a 'society' anymore, but I'm not sure. I mean, the capitalist system is really the root of the problem, and maybe what we should do is just address that. I'm not sure that we can really be a true collective as long as we're continuing to participate in a larger system of messed up power relationships.

Thoughts?
